More use for school field?

Somerset County Council's education committee is to be asked if children on the Bowring Close-Harters Close estate at Coxley can play in the village school playing field.

Wells Rural Council decided this on Wednesday when they heard from Coun. Kenneth Parsons that a complaint made by a tenant in the old people's bungalows in Bowring Close had distressed some parents on the estate.

He said there was nowhere else for the children to play except the school field and the playing field which was at the other end of the village across a busy main road.

The council decided to investigate the possibility of using the school field.
